

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The conductor board has at least one layer of a dielectric provided areally on two mutually opposed faces with at least one metalization on each. There is at least one through contacting in the region of an aperture. The metalizations are applied to cover at least one aperture and are electrically connected to each other through the aperture.